

OK!

THE LATEST CELEB

INSIDE

FIXATED ON FIXES

"Kim has procedures all over her body," says a source, "but considers her butt her top asset and focuses on it the most. She has a distorted view of what looks good."

KIM

DESTROYING HER BODY!

Two pregnancies in three years will take a toll on any woman. Add to that big weight gains and fairly rapid losses, plus a reported history of plastic-surgery procedures, and you've got the hot mess that is Kim Kardashian's body right now. On a recent trip to Miami, Kim stepped out in an all-white ensemble (left) that had onlookers focused first on her barely contained breasts and then on her oddly lumpy rear end. "Heads were turning," says an eyewitness. "Kim's butt has been a staple of her sexiness, but now it looks totally weird."

Indeed, even as she struggles to lose the last 10 of the 60 pounds she gained carrying her 5-month-old son, Saint, "Kim is going to her plastic surgeon's office several times a month," says a concerned friend. "She's gone overboard on her butt." Kim's rep denies any work on her rear, but Dr. Michelle Yagoda, an NYC-based plastic surgeon who has not treated Kim, agrees that the transformation doesn't look natural and notes that "recovery from buttocks lifting and enlargement surgery can be difficult and long."

"People have told Kim she needs to slow down," says the friend, "but she believes she looks great." So does hubby Kanye West, the insider adds: "It's shocking considering that Kanye's mother died from complications related to cosmetic surgery, but he wants Kim to look picture-perfect. Clearly, someone needs to intervene."