Thank u glam," Gwen Stefani captioned a Nov. 13 Insta, giving props to her glam squad for her polished-in-pink look. But fans were left wondering whether it was just makeup responsible for the Voice mentor's new face. "It looks like Gwen has had cheek filler, a rhinoplasty to smooth out the bump on her nose, Botox to drop her upper lip to reduce her gummy smile and lip injections — see the bumpiness of her top lip," celeb plastic surgeon Michelle Yagoda tells Star (Gwen is not her patient). The NYC-based doctor also points out that the 50-year-old may have a chin implant: "Her chin looks longer and more square."

This isn't the first time the mom of three unveiled a puffed-up transformation. After April's ACM Awards, fans flooded her feed, with one urging, "Chill on the surgery."

NYC-based plastic surgeon David Shafer sympathizes. "Celebrities have a tough time changing their appearance because they're always photographed," says the doc, who hasn't treated Gwen. "One thing I would suggest is not to overfill her cheeks." He adds, "Gwen is a beautiful person, so hopefully her injector is ethical and won't overdo it." ★
